

Junior Product Manager (m/f/d)

at IMPARGO

Cairo, Egypt

IMPARGO digitizes SME transport service providers and shippers with easy-to-use, easy-to-integrate software used all over Europe.

We are as interested in your character the same as we are in your talent. Don't hesitate to apply, even if you feel you only meet part of our listed criteria.

About the role

We are looking for a smart and capable Product Manager to join our growing family, and help us digitalize the trucking industry. You'll be joining a talented international team of product designers, engineers and marketers based in Berlin and Cairo. If you're passionate about discovering and delivering digital solutions that solve real customer problems in the logistics industry let's have a chat!

About IMPARGO

IMPARGO is on a mission to revolutionize the logistics industry. Thousands of users all over Europe rely on our systems to calculate their transportation routes, optimize their costs, manage their orders, and much more. All of this is possible because of talented and driven people like you! With teams based in Berlin and Cairo, we build tools to help small and medium sized transportation companies and shippers all across Europe save time and effort.

You will cover the following ...

- Lead product discovery and prioritize the product backlog.
- Work closely together with product designers, engineers and marketers.
- Deliver digital products to a large user base of truck dispatchers, drivers and logistic professionals all across Europe.
- Be an influential part of a small and highly capable cross-functional team

You should have ...

- Passion about building an excellent user experience, and you monitor your metrics to see whether you're delivering on that promise.
- Strong communication skills preferably in German and English and be comfortable in working collaboratively in a cross-functional team.

Preferably you have ...

- Proven experience as a Product Manager for digital products.
- Experience delivering SaaS products to a large user base while analyzing behavior.
- Deep understanding of the European logistics industry.

You can expect ...

- A competitive salary and a stake in the product you're building.
- To directly have an impact on the team, the customer, the product and the company. We want your DNA to be part of the company.
- A flexible working environment and work from home policy.
- Be part of our international team based in Berlin or Cairo composed by passionate and open-minded people who believe in this mission. English is our company language.
- Take on real responsibility in different intriguing challenges that will develop your knowledge and your "get-things-done" attitude.
- Work hand-in-hand with the company's founders and an A+ team in a relaxed environment with open communication with all members.

Feeling up to the challenge? Apply now and send your CV to jobs@impargo.de and be a part of this amazing team!